AGASSIZ, MAGAZINE WRITER, VISITOR TO CITY FOR FEW DAYS

A visitor to Daytona, after an absence of five years, was Garmant Agassiz, the magazine writer, who will be remembered to some Floridians as the author of the article on the resources of this state, published in the "National Magazine" in November, 1910, under the title, "Florida Land of Enchantment."

At the present time Mr. Agassiz is publicity representative of the Canada Steamship Lines, an amalgamation of most of the important transportation companies on the Canadian Great Lakes and St. Lawrence, including such well-known lines as the Richelieu and Ontario, Niagara Navigation, Thousand Island Steamboat, Quebec Steamship, Northern Navigation, St. Lawrence Navigation, and many other smaller corporations. All told the Canada Steamship Lines has 115 vessels on the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence, besides maintaining a permanent service between New York and Bermuda and the West Indies.

"This year should be the most profitable in the history of the Canadian tourist traffic," said Mr. Agassiz to a representative of the Daily News. "The gates of Europe will be practically closed to the 125,000 Americans who have gone there regularly in the past decade. The tourist will have to travel somewhere, and the Dominion of Canada feels that she has the scenery, climate and the many diversions required by the tourist to make him choose her shores to a very great extent."

"Canada in the summertime, Florida in the winter, would seem to me to be about an ideal slogan for all of the great transportation companies in the more thickly populated sections of this country to preach."

There is only one Garmant Agassiz, and there are few imitators. Persons looking for somebody to emulate, take one long look at Garmant Agassiz's personality and achievements and give up forever the idea of successfully imitating him; for Garmant Agassiz is positively inimitable—and he's got far more than one man's share of ability to size up a situation and write about it intelligently, convincingly.

WAR PRISONERS ARE WELL CARED FOR IN ENGLAND

Edward B. Clark Makes an Inspection of the Camp at Dorchester.

GERMANS GIVEN GOOD FOOD

Are Taken For Long Walks and Allowed to Play Games to Keep in Condition—London is Hourly Expecting an Attack from "on High."

By EDWARD B. CLARK.
(Staff Correspondent Western Newspaper Union.)

London, England.—For the first time since the war began up to the hour of this writing, England has been visited on two consecutive days, or rather nights, by hostile aircraft, which dropped bombs without doing very much damage. At this hour London fully is expecting an attack from what one without irreverence may call "on high."

It may be that by the day that this appears the expected attack will have taken place, but the one thing remains strong, that with expectation strong that something is going to drop on it, London continues to be the phlegmatic city that it always has been.

On the day that the bombs were dropped on two villages called Faversham and Sittingbourne, I came into London from a visit to a town near the coast and as I learned afterward I was not far ahead of the aeroplanes which did the shell dropping. From a personal point of view perhaps it were better to be ahead of the aeroplane, but from a reporter's point of view perhaps it was not unlucky! Nevertheless in the talk of the thing and in the preparations made by London for the coming of flying visitors, there was interest enough to keep the newspaper pulse throbbing.

It is taken for granted, of course, that courage is the same in all civilized countries, but it does seem as if the sort of cool indifference of the Englishman to the possibilities or probabilities of overhead attack is a peculiarly British characteristic. The prisoners at Dorchester were all captured during or just after battles. Every man there had been doing his best for the Fatherland on the fighting line. Some of them had been badly wounded, but had been kept in hospitals until complete, or nearly complete recovery, before being sent to the prison camp proper. One young fellow, just a little more than of age, had been badly wounded in the side at the battle of Solissons, or perhaps it were better to say at one of the many battles near Solissons, because back and forth about the place the armies had been struggling for a long time. This soldier youth was a student. He wore big spectacles, almost the size of motor car goggles. He spoke English, which he told me he had learned at school, having never been in an English-speaking country in his life. If the American boy learns as good German in an American school as the English that soldier learned in a German school, our modern language teachers know their business.

Are Well Cared For. Perhaps, in the present state of affairs he, as a German, is not particularly proud of his English and French-speaking accomplishments, but he knows the, to him, alien languages well. His English is almost without a trace of what we call foreign accent, and I suppose I am not qualified to judge. This boy told me of his prison life, and said he had good food, a good bed and was comfortable, but with good food and a good bed he nevertheless was a prisoner. I thought on this as I talked to him, wondering all the while whether he, after all, would not prefer the battle and its dangers to the prison life, its semicomforts and its safety.

Much has been written about the uniform of the German armies, how its color makes it actually vanish when viewed at a little distance. Nearly all of the prisoners at Dorchester were still garbed in their field coats and trousers, and some of them still had their service caps. I saw many of these men at a distance of nearly two hundred yards, but I did not see them clearly, because with their caps drawn down over their eyes, thus making them virtually one color from toe to top, they melted into the surroundings so that they became part of them and were with the utmost difficulty picked out by the eye of the observer.

The prisoners at Dorchester live either in brick buildings which have stood for a good many years, or in frame structures recently erected for their accommodation. They sleep on the floor or at least upon boards removed from the floor by only a few inches. On these boards, however, is laid a thick mattress which seemingly is comfortable. Each sleeper has three blankets with which to keep himself warm.

The food which the English give the Germans at Dorchester, and the camp there is said to be a typical one, is not the food of a Michigan boulevard or Fifth avenue hotel, but those who must eat it say that it is good and that there is enough of it. I proved to my own satisfaction that the captives really were satisfied with their food and were not simply telling me so because a British army officer was present while I was talking to him. I had sense enough to know that no prisoner would care to complain of his food while one of the authoritative ones was present, and so I wanted to make it certain, as far as I could, whether or not the prisoners had just cause to complain, but yet either did not care to or dare to do it.

May Buy Little Comforts.

Every prisoner at Dorchester is allowed to receive money from friends to be used to purchase such permitted things as will add to his comfort. There is a store within the prison, canteen they call it, at which the captives may make purchases. I went to that store and watched prisoner after prisoner as he came to buy. Solid food was on sale there, and many tempting articles of food of the lighter kind as well. I reasoned that if the men were dissatisfied with the food that was issued to them, or that if it was not nutritious, they would spend their money on food which they felt they needed to keep up their strength, and perhaps their hearts.

With the exception of fruit, no prisoner made a purchase of food. Fine bacon, fine canned soups and canned meat in authority or prisoners, told me that a newspaper man visitor was to drop in to the place. I went there and found something very much like astonishment that a superior officer authority had given me permission to go to the camp, to look it over, and to write about it. This made me certain that no preparations for my visit had been made, and that I saw the captives in their normal state of treatment and imprisonment.

VOTES 53 YEARS, NOT CITIZEN

Veteran of the Civil War Has Just Discovered He Is Still an Alien.

Los Angeles, Cal.—John Kirby, born in England, veteran of the Civil war, and a voter at every presidential election since the close of the war, has just discovered that he is still an alien.

Kirby, now seventy-three, took the oath of allegiance when he joined the army and assumed that that oath made him an American citizen.

While proving up on a homestead in the United States land office he was asked to show his naturalization papers. He had none. After fifty-three years of practical citizenship, he said he would try again legally to become an American.

ANTS MAKE HOUSES UNSAFE

Stability of a Kansas College Building Is Menaced by Burrowing Termites.

Manhattan, Kan.—The wooden partitions and floors of the administration building of the State Agricultural college here are to be torn out and cement floors and walls substituted. The measure has become necessary on account of the termites, or white ants, which have damaged the woodwork.

The termites, which live on dry vegetable and fiber substances, have proved a pest at the college, and in other places over the state, according to the entomology department of the college. They have damaged other buildings at the college in the past.

A line of completeness

WHILE the transient population of Daytona and the peninsula cities has dwindled to a few score souls, there are still several thousand permanent residents here. And they have to buy food and clothing and shoes and summer comforts and amusements.

The DAILY NEWS goes into the homes of several hundred families of these people every day except Sunday. And, Mr. Merchant, many of those people expect you to talk to them, through the DAILY NEWS, about the things you want them to buy---and things they WANT to buy.

PORT ORANGE.

PORT ORANGE, May 27.—After a prosperous term the public school closed last Friday and the pupils are enjoying the change.

Kathleen de Graffenreid, who has been satisfactorily filled in the position of primary teacher in this school for the term just ended, left Saturday morning for her home in Folkston, Ga. She has been in the position for the next year and we bespeak for her the same co-operation that she has rendered in the past year.

Ray Albertson, who has been faithfully and successfully working in the intermediate department of our school left on Monday for his father's home near Detroit, Mich. His future movements are not known, but the best wishes of the community follow her.

But not least, Mrs. Mollie Adams, the capable, palatable and hearty co-operation of our school, left Saturday morning for Bushnell, Fla. She will visit some time with her mother, resting after the arduous work of her position. She is preparing to take up the duties again for the next term. Her able administration of the school and the loyal and faithful co-operation of her capable and efficient teachers and the hearty co-operation of the Port Orange school community are big step forward and future prospects are bright, with promise of higher attainments.

During the exercises of the graduation exercises of the school were held in the gymnasium Friday night. The well-attended program follows:

"The Song," rendered by the choir, by Rev. Mr. Oates.

"The Song" with whistle accompaniment.

"The Fairies and the Flower Chorus."

"The Class Song."

Members of the graduating class of the eighth grade were; Effie Adams, who delivered the valedictory address and recited the "Psalm of David."

Miss Doty, "Memory's Song," "Hope On;"

Mr. Morford, "Better Than Gold."

The class song, "Passing the Time," followed by the "Grammar School," followed by the people of the United States and the mighty mould of the public schools was evidenced by the willingness with which funds were provided; that the public schools had been the means of bringing us up to our high position among the nations; and that many of the children do not get nearly the benefits they should from them, and urging more interest on the part of parents, were points made by J. B. Case, who delivered the class address. Certificates were given the graduating class of 1915, as well as the classes of '13 and '14, who had never received theirs. The school room was packed and numbers could not gain admittance. Thus auspiciously ended the 1914-15 term of the Port Orange public school.

enter upon the duties of a position he has accepted.

Those who have land within the proposed drainage district for Dunlawton, and back to Blake, Daytona, etc., and who favor the scheme can sign the petition, or should they have signed, see whether their names are on the petition, as one of them was lost, by calling on J. B. Case, who has the petition.

The library season for the Port Orange Literary and Library association for 1914-15 will end with the last Friday in May.

It has been decided to keep the library open for the summer season, beginning with the first Friday in June, and ending the last Friday in November. ## TO BE EXPENDED BY PALM BEACH COUNTY

That south Florida's "million-dollar highway" will become a reality is no longer in doubt.

Tuesday of this week, the voters of Palm Beach county endorsed by a vote of nearly four to one an $800,000 bond issue, the object of which is to provide money for building oiled roads. The people of Dade county recently approved two bond issues of $100,000 each, the purpose being to build an oiled boulevard from the northern line of Dade southward to Cape Sable, at the lower extremity of the county.

When it became known that the Palm Beach bond issue was certain of ratification, there was great enthusiasm among the people, most of whom regard the building of the highway contemplated as a long step toward greater development and prosperity for the sections affected. Only one precinct, that of County Commissioner John Knight, voted against the bond issue, the commissioner himself opposing the proposition.

From the north line of Palm Beach county to the south line of Dade, a distance of approximately 200 miles, it is now certain will be constructed an oiled boulevard at a cost of about $1,000,000, which amount of money is to come through the sale of the three bond issues herein mentioned.

A FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION DECIDED

ARRANGEMENTS DISCUSSED AND COMMITTEES APPOINTED AT MEETING OF DAYTONA BEACH AND SEABREEZE BODIES.

A meeting of the chamber of commerce of Daytona Beach and Seabreeze was held Thursday evening with a view to arranging for a Fourth of July celebration. The meeting was well attended, the citizens in general having been invited to be present.

To forward the movement several committees were appointed. Hadwin Courtney is chairman of the finance committee; Harry Horn is chairman of the advertising committee and William Goldenberg chairman of the race committee. Another committee was also appointed to solicit prizes for the race committee. Another committee was also appointed to solicit prizes for the races from the residents of this city. The chairman of the finance committee reported that they expected to raise $300 for the necessary expenses.

It is proposed to have automobile, motorcycle and horse races on the ocean beach in the forenoon. In the afternoon the Daytona baseball team will play a match game with a team from Sanford, Orlando or some other interior town and the celebration will wind up with a ball at the Nautilus casino in the evening.

A big crowd from interior places attended the celebration held here on the Fourth last year and it is expected that there will be an equally large or even larger attendance the coming Fourth.

BAPTIST S. S. PICNIC AT ADDISON'S LANDING

About 90 officers, teachers and pupils of the Baptist Sunday school of Daytona enjoyed an excursion to Addison's landing, on the Tomoka river, Thursday. They made the trip on the Seminole, one of the Nutting line boats, leaving here at 9:30 in the forenoon and returning about 6:00 o'clock in the evening. Among the delightful features of the outing were a bountiful picnic dinner at an appropriate hour and visits to the ancient fort, old sugar mill, and other points of interest in the Tomoka region. One of the gentlemen "among those present" described the excursion as a "howling success" in every particular.

FOUND TURTLE'S NEST WITH EGGS OF EXTRA SIZE

Judge Bert Fish, of Deland, and F. N. Conrad were enjoying a turn on the ocean beach by automobile, Wednesday evening and when about half a mile north of the inlet they discovered a fresh turtle "crawl" and following it up found the turtle, a large specimen, just preparing to lay her eggs. Waiting until this had been performed they found themselves in possession of 138 eggs, four or five of which were of unusual size, being two or three times the length of the average turtle egg. The turtle was probably an old one and like old hens was laying double yolks.

"LET GEORGE DO IT," SHOUTED THE CROWD

DAYTONA BALL TEAM DEFEATED

AT ORMOND, THURSDAY AFTER

NOON, CHIEFLY BY BRILLIANT

PLAY OF GEORGE CUSACK.

George Cusack, with some little help, defeated the Daytona baseball team at Ormond Thursday.

"Let George do it," shouted the crowd, and he did. He struck out 13 men and covered the whole infield like a net, while at bat his home run and two-bagger came at the right times. George and his playmates were not alone responsible, as the Daytona infield, while playing brilliantly at times, did not seem to be able to separate the ball from the tall grass when men were on bases.

Lemerick, Politz and Porter starred at the bat for Daytona. Dick's long drive to left would easily have been a home run but for ground rules.

Orr pitched five innings for Daytona and did well after the fatal first inning, but fielded his position in bad shape when the bases were filled in the fifth.

Hagan held his opponents to one hit in the three innings he officiated and showed good judgment at all times.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Ormond ... 510 031 008—8 5 4
Daytona ... 000 121 000—4 7 7
Sum ... Two-base hits, Russell, Lemerick, Politz, Cusack, Politz. Home run, Cusack. Bases on balls, off Cusack, 3; off Orr, 2. Struck out, by Cusack, 13; by Orr, 2; by Hagan, 1. Passed balls, Sweat, 2; Maass, 1. Wild pitches, Orr, 2. Umpires, Pellicier and Malphus.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS PICNIC ON THE OCEAN BEACH

The Sunday schools of the Methodist and Congregational churches picnicked at the beach Thursday of this week, the first named at the Country club in the afternoon and the latter at the Nautilus casino all day. The two combined formed quite a crowd and there was more or less intermingling of the Country club house and Nautilus casino parties.

A ball game was played at Ebbets field and games of other kinds were also enjoyed by the children, while, of course, the basket dinner was an important feature of the occasion.

At the Nautilus the swimming pools were a great attraction. These swimming pools are daily growing in popularity. The management desires it understood that the water in the pools is constantly being changed and that all reports to the contrary are untrue. The members of the Congregational Sunday school returned home at about 6:00 o'clock and the Methodists shortly thereafter.
